Stress of Immigration Survey (SOIS)

The 21-item Stress of Immigration Survey (SOIS) assesses stress due to immigration-related issues. The mixed methods approach included concept development, pretesting, field-testing, and psychometric evaluation in a sample of 131 low-income women of Mexican descent. It was developed in Spanish and then translated into English. The SOIS assesses five domains of stress related to:

- Language (limited English proficiency)
- Immigrant status (lack of legal status)
- Work issues (disadvantages in the workplace)
- Yearning for family and home country
- Cultural dissonance within the U.S.

Each domain is measured separately, in addition to a total score. A 5-item short form is available, which is a subset of the 21 items.

Method of Administration

The SOIS is administered by personal interview in which the interviewer provides a brief description of the questionnaire and instructions. This can be done by reading these from the top of the questionnaire. Respondents can then self-administer the survey with the interviewer available to answer any questions. If a respondent indicates that an item is "not applicable," he/she can just skip it.

A modified visual analogue scale (attached) can be printed and laminated for use by the interviewer. It was developed for respondents with very low literacy. This presents visually an ordinal scale depicting increasing levels of stress. Respondents are asked to choose one number from this figure.
